1. Administrative Divisions — Suba, Sarkar, Pargana & Chakla

- Akbar ne apni empire ko administrative convenience ke liye units mein baata — poori empire 'Subas' (provinces) mein bati thi. Subas aage 'Sarkars' (districts) aur 'Parganas' (sub-districts) mein bate the — kai villages milkar ek Pargana banate the. Har Sarkar mein Faujdar, Amalguzar, Qazi, Kotwal, Bitiqhi aur Khajandar jaise chief officers hote the. [Q1, Q2]
- 'Chakla', Mughal period mein (khaaskar Shah Jahan ke reign mein) ek administrative division tha — ye Subah (province) aur Pargana (sub-district) ke beech ka ek territorial unit tha, lekin Sarkar (district) se poori tarah identical nahi tha. [Q18]

2. Central Officials — The Mir Bakshi

- Mughal period mein military ke head ko 'Mir Bakshi' kaha jaata tha — unhe darbar ke leading nobles appoint karte the. Wo intelligence gathering ke incharge the, aur military appointments-promotions ke liye emperor ko recommendations dete the. [Q3]
- Mir Bakshi ka duty tha land revenue officials ki supervision karna, military department ki salaries handle karne ke saath-saath — Sir Jadunath Sarkar ne unhe 'Pay Master' bhi kaha. [Q4]
- Mughal Mansabdari system ke smooth functioning ke liye Mir Bakshi responsible the — Mansabdari system officials ki ranking aur unki civil-military duties, remuneration decide karti thi. [Q10]

3. The Military Character of the Mughal Empire

- Assertion-Reason: Mughal Empire ek pure military state thi (behas ka vishay hai, lekin zyadatar historians maante hain ki state machinery/Mansabdars ko military character di gayi thi — sahi Assertion) — Mughals ek badi army maintain karte the, jo central empire ke expansion-strengthening mein

madadgar thi, isliye military power hi unka vital backbone tha (sahi Reason, jo Assertion ko explain karta hai). [Q5]

4. Foreign Employees in Mughal Service — Manucci

- Niccolao Manucci, ek Italian traveller, shuru mein Dara Shikoh ki Mughal army mein artilleryman ki tarah appoint hue the — Dara Shikoh ki 1659 mein mrityu ke baad, unhone Mughal service mein medico (physician) ki profession choose ki. [Q6]

5. Ahadis — The Gentlemen-at-Arms

- 'Ahadis' Akbar ki standing army ka hissa the (kuch hazaar ki sankhya mein) — kai ghodo se equipped, excellent archers ki reputation rakhte the. Wo akele apni services offer karte the (kisi mounted retainer ya chief ko follow nahi karte the), aur directly Emperor ke authority ke under the — Mirzas se koi attachment nahi rakhte the. [Q7]

6. Muhtasib — The Censor of Public Morals

- Mughal administration mein 'Muhtasib', public morals ke censor the — wo police-cum-judge ki tarah kaam karte the, Muslims ke beech Sharia (canon law) ka observance ensure karte the, aur public moral standards maintain karte the. [Q8]

7. The Mansabdari System — Purpose & Features

- Medieval India mein Mansabdari system mainly clean administration effect karne ke liye introduce ki gayi thi — Akbar ne military aur civil service ke liye ek well-organised system banayi jo Mughal administration ka main basis ban gayi. [Q9]
- Mansab ka matlab tha rank/status — Mansabdars 33 classes mein bate hue the. 'Mashrut' (conditional rank) ka use hota tha, jisme temporary period ke liye Sawar rank badhayi jaati thi. ⚠ Lekin 'Sawar' rank kabhi 'Zat' rank se zyada NAHI ho sakti thi — wo Zat ke barabar ya kam ho sakti thi, zyada nahi. [Q11]
- Mansabdari system ki features: Zat aur Sawar ranks (Mansabs) grant kiye jaate the (sahi). Zat-Sawar ratio ke basis par Mansabdars 3 classes mein bate the (First: Sawar=Zat; Second: Sawar=half-ya-zyada Zat; Third: baaki). System hereditary NAHI thi — King hi appoint/promote/remove karta tha (galat statement tha ki hereditary hai). Salaries cash (Naqdi) ya land assignments (Jagirs) ke through di jaati thi, centrally Diwan office se NAHI (galat statement). [Q12]
- Mansabdari system statements: Ye system Akbar ne 1575 mein shuru ki thi, ye nobility-administration ki official structure thi (sahi). System hereditary NAHI thi — ek mansab merit-loyalty ke basis par diya jaata tha, aur mansabdar ki mrityu par wapas state ko revert ho jaata tha. [Q19]
- Assertion-Reason: Mansabdari system Mughal period mein exist karti thi (sahi Assertion) — Mansabdars ko unki qualification-loyalty ke basis par directly King appoint karta tha, heredity ke basis par nahi (sahi Reason bhi) — lekin merit-based selection hi is system ke exist karne ki wajah NAHI thi, ye system effective civil-military administration ke liye thi (isliye Reason, Assertion ka sahi explanation nahi deta). [Q20]

- Akbar dwara introduce ki gayi Mansabdari system military aur civil — dono departments mein common thi (sahi statement A) — isliye sabhi Mansabdars sirf military commanders hi NAHI the, high-ranking civil servants, nobles aur administrators ko bhi mansabs di jaati thi (sahi statement B). [Q21]

8. Jagirdar vs Zamindar

- Jagirdar aur Zamindar mein antar: Jagirdars ko unki military-administrative salary ke against land assignments milti thi (judicial-police duties ke liye NAHI). Jagirdars ke land assignments transferable aur non-hereditary the (shift ya seize kiye ja sakte the), jabki Zamindars ke revenue rights alag nature ke the. [Q13]

9. Land Revenue — The Principal Source of State Income

- Mughal agrarian system ki central feature thi kisano se unki surplus produce ko land revenue ke roop mein alienate karna — ye Land Revenue (Lagaan/Maal) Mughal India mein State income ka sabse primary-significant source tha. [Q14]
- Mughal administrative terminology mein 'Maal' word primarily Land Revenue se related tha. [Q15]
- 'Bantai' (Galla-Bakshi bhi kehte hain) medieval period mein revenue calculate karne ka ek system tha, jisme actual produce ka hissa liya jaata tha. Sher Shah Suri ne revenue calculate karne ke 3 systems chuni thi: Nasq/Kankut, Nakadi/Jabti, aur Galla Bakshi/Bantai. [Q29]
- North India mein Akbar ke reign mein, Dewan Todarmal ne ek highly systematic land revenue collection method (Zabt/Dahsala) establish ki — lekin ye system Deccan ke remote regions mein us waqt fully implement NAHI hui thi. Wahan ke farmers 'number of plows' ke basis par land revenue dete the. [Q30]

10. Jahangir's Ban on Tobacco

- 1605 AD mein Portuguese ne India mein tobacco (tambaku) introduce ki thi, jo aam logo mein bahut popular ho gayi. Iske harmful effects aur rapid addiction dekhkar, Mughal Emperor Jahangir ne 1617 AD mein tobacco ke use par ban laga diya. [Q16]

11. Madad-i-Mash — Revenue-Free Land Grants

- 'Madad-i-Mash' (Suyurghal bhi kehte hain), Mughal administration mein revenue-free land grants ko indicate karta tha — ye grants pious/learned logo, saints, aur religious institutions-shrines ki maintenance ke liye charity ki tarah di jaati thi. [Q17]

12. Finance Department Officials — The Diwans

- Officer-Duty match: Diwan-i-Tan → Jagir aur Salaries dekhta tha; Mustaufi (Mustarfi) → State ke income-expenditure ka auditor; Mushrif → Chief accountant/office officer; Vakianvis (Waqia-Nawis) → News reporter, main events-firmans ki list maintain karta tha. [Q22]
- ⚠ Disputed: Mughal Emperors aur unke prominent Diwans (Finance Ministers) ka direct match: Akbar → Muzaffar Khan Turbati; Jahangir → Ghiyas Beg Itmadud-Daulah; Shah Jahan → Sadullah Khan; Aurangzeb → Asad Khan. Diye gaye options mein se koi bhi is sahi sequence ko reflect nahi karta — original answer key mein ek misprint ki wajah se ye question disputed hai. [Q23]

13. The Currency System

- Assertion-Reason: Akbar ne Sher Shah Suri ke reforms se inspire hokar state ki currency ko systematically regulate karne ki koshish ki (sahi Assertion) — Akbar aur unke successors ke time gold coins (Mohur), silver coins (Rupree), aur copper coins (Dam) extensively circulate hote the — lekin same copper coin naam continuity ka example hai, Akbar ke currency regulate karne ki wajah NAHI (isliye Reason, Assertion ka sahi explanation nahi deta). [Q24]
- Mughal Emperor Akbar ne apni religious tolerance aur cultural synthesis ki policy ko reflect karte hue, ek special type ke gold-silver coins issue kiye the jinme Lord Ram aur Goddess Sita ki figures the, saath hi Devanagari script mein 'Ram-Siya' likha hota tha. [Q25]
- Sher Shah ke reforms ke baad establish hui standard Mughal currency system mein 3 basic coins the: Mohur (gold se bana), Rupree (silver se bana), aur Dam (copper se bana). [Q26]
- Mughal dynasty ke founder Babur ne 'Shahrukh' naam ki ek silver coin introduce aur popularize ki thi — unhone apni jeeto ke baad ye coins issue ki. [Q27]
- Mughal period mein coin categorization: current saal ke naye coins 'Taza Sikka' kehlaate the; current emperor ke reign mein widely circulate hone wale coins 'Chalani' kehlaate the; lekin purane emperors ke reign mein mint hue aur abhi bhi circulation mein rehne wale coins ko specifically 'Khazana' kaha jaata tha. [Q28]

14. Mughal-Era Canals

- Mughal-era 'Shahab Nahr' (Shahab Canal), Delhi Sultan Firuz Shah Tughluq ki purani 'Rajabwah' canal ko renovate/repair karke banayi gayi thi — Akbar ke time Delhi ke Governor Shihabuddin Khan ne irrigation ke liye is canal ki repair ki, aur iska naam 'Shahab Nahr' rakha. [Q31]
